Pink Elephant Seeks Peace As Surf And Sand

Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock the City Council and representatives of the Carmel Protective Association, the citizens group which has actively supported the council in its fight to prevent Paul Chedester and Robert Aebersold from establishing a liquor store, The Pink Elephant, at the corner of Torres and Sixth Avenue, will discuss a Chedester-Aebersold proposal to:

Establish a drug store at the disputed location with liquor sales subordinate to the other business,

Change the name from The Pink Elephant to Surf and Sand,

Limit business hours, opening at 9:00 o'clock in the morning and closing at 9:00 o'clock at night.

"In my opinion they (Chedester and Aebersold) would be in compliance with the city ordinance if they operate as their plans indicate," City Attorney John Morse told the council at its meeting last night when the Pink Elephant switched proposal came up on the agenda.

The ordinance requires that in commercial areas outside the central business district liquor sales must be in conjunction with and subordinate to some other business.

When Chedester and Aebersold applied last spring for a transfer of liquor license to the Torres Street site the council protested to the Alcoholic Beverage Control board that the use would be in violation of the city zoning ordinance.

The ABC board ruled that the ordinance was invalid since it usurped powers that belong to the board, and approved the transfer.

The city appealed and the appeals board found for the city. "The only ordinance in California so upheld," Attorney Morse commented last night.

On October 2 Chedester and Aebersold sought in superior court in Salinas a reversal of the state appeal board's findings for the city. The city and the Carmel Protective Association, named along with the appeals board and several ABC officials as defendants, are preparing to fight for the ordinance. First round in court is scheduled for October 18.

But if the council and the protective association, after studying the Chedester-Aebersold new proposal Tuesday, find that it is in compliance with the ordinance, the emphasis in the case may shift from the status of the ordinance to the issuance of the license.

Citizens Invited To Firemen's Barrel Fight Tonight

The Carmel Volunteer Fire Department will celebrate Fire Prevention week with a barrel fight tonight, 7:30 o'clock, at the corner of San Carlos and Ocean Avenue.

Two teams, officers vs. men, will battle to roll the barrel with streams of water from two and a half inch hose lines.

Citizens are invited to watch, Fire Chief Robert Smith says.

Chief Smith's Fire Prevention Week statement to the community comes as a Hallowe'en warning. He urges that people do not burn candles in plastic pumpkins. "One of them started a fire last Hallowe'en."

Also, the chief advises parents, in buying Hallowe'en costumes for their children, to "read the label on the box and make sure it says, 'flame proofed' or 'flame retarded' ".

Petitioners Hiss And Boo Labor Heads

Last night the city council apparently decided what to do about a citizens-group petition for a Carmel right to work ordinance—wait to see what happens to Palm Springs' ordinance.

City Attorney John Morse advised the delay.

The committee which had collected 1200 signatures for the petition urged action.

Representatives of the Monterey Peninsula Labor Unions had their say.

Some of the right to work sympathisers, who packed the house, booed and hissed the labor speakers.

City Attorney Morse explained that it has not been finally established if it is within the jurisdiction of a city or county "to enact legislation in this field."

Palm Springs' and San Benito County's right to work ordinance have been voided in superior court. He had talked to the city attorney of Palm Springs, which is appealing the decision. Palm Springs' opening brief has just been filed in the state fourth appellate district court, a hearing is expected in January, and a decision in about eight months.

"The ruling on the San Benito County ordinance was made by one of our superior court judges in Monterey County, and it is very likely at this stage that we would receive an adverse ruling on such an ordinance in superior court consistent with prior rulings, at least if such ordinance were tested prior to the decision in the Palm Springs case.

"I feel most strongly as city attorney that it is important that we be able to defend the validity of any ordinance that we enact, bearing in mind the necessity of keeping our legal framework as strong as can be practically done. In this case this would involve carrying this ordinance to the appeal stage, which I feel is already being done for us by the City of Palm Springs.

"It would be my advice that un-

Chest Drive In Advance Of Last Year In Carmel

Carmel Community Chest returns at the end of the first week of the campaign are $11,188.50, twice as much as the amount collected during the same period last year.

Residence zone returns amount to $9,600.50, according to Mrs. Julian von Meier of the Carmel Chest office. Business area returns are $1,588.00 mostly advance gifts, she reports. As yet few business district Chest solicitors have sent in their returns.

Chest goal in Carmel this year is $29,000 which includes support of the Youth Center.

Council Installs Knight Eyes New Vacant Chair; Plans Appointment Wed.

Allen Knight, Carmel Mayor from 1950-52, took oath of office as city councilman last night.

The Council, meeting in executive session the night before, had appointed him on a 3 to 1 vote to serve the remaining two years of Horace Lyon, who resigned as mayor and city councilman October 1, for reasons of health.

But the council still had a vacant chair to look at for the four long hours of last night's meeting.

Francis Whitaker resigned yesterday morning. John Chitwood, mayor pro tem, read the letter of resignation in which Mr. Whitaker gave the reason for his action.

Gentlemen:

Last night, in executive session, the council voted 3 to 1 an appointment to fill the vacancy on the council.

I believe that in appointing a defeated candidate, who although Mayor at the time, ran fifth in his campaign for re-election in 1952, the members of the council ignored a clear expression of the will of the people.

In appointing a man who wanted to bring the Firestone laboratory to this community, and a man whose major interests, in my opinion, lie outside the City of Carmel, the members of the council took a step backward.

In view of these circumstances, I feel that the time and effort I have so freely given in the past in the discharge of my duties will no longer be effective in accomplishing that which I feel is best for Carmel.

I wish to thank those who have given me their loyal support, and to hope that they will understand the reasons for my decision.

I hereby submit my resignation as City Councilman, effective October 9, 1957, at 7:45 p.m.

Respectively yours,
Francis Whitaker.

"Individual councilmen, including Mr. Knight, have expressed regret that Mr. Whitaker has thought it necessary to take this step," Mayor Chitwood commented.

The council withdrew for a few minutes in executive session to "organize." Returning, Mr. Chitwood announced he would continue as mayor until the new vacancy

Dr. Schweitzer Blesses Carmel Poet's Marriage In Rhineland Ceremony

Dear Wilma: October 1, 1957

So much has happened since I wrote you from mid-Atlantic that I hardly know where to begin. Landing at Le Havre on August 23, we were met there by relatives of Louis Mayer and they drove us to San Michele through the charming little French villages and along the quiet country roads. There is not much traffic after one has left the towns.

As we neared San Michele in the evening, just before sunset, we saw in the distance the outlines of the famous abbey rising through the silver-grey light, and as we approached, we sensed the nobility and beauty of that great towering structure rising from the sheer rock and built century upon century to the glory of God. The tide was out and the silver sheen on the sands looked like a shining floor written over by great swirling lines of gold where the last tide-streams slowly moved outward towards the sea.

Our whole party stayed overnight at a little hotel built into the face of the rock, and we looked out in the morning to see a full tide reflecting rosy little clouds like cherubs. The whole island was surrounded by water, except where the approach has been built up as a causeway. After breakfast we toured the abbey and learned its history.

After leaving San Michele, we drove to Chartres and there I saw for the first time the magnificence and glory of an old cathedral with its soaring lines and beautiful stained glass windows. To tell of the beauty of Chartres would take pages and I can only say that I experienced a sense of solemnity in the presence of great art, of great accomplishment by the religious spirit of man.

After leaving Chartres, we drove to Versailles with its spacious gardens and woods and the famous fountains. We had dinner at the Bois de Boulogne and then went on to Paris. In the morning we arrived at Notre Dame just as they were about to celebrate the Liberation Anniversary, and as it happened, we went into the cathedral just behind the many dignitaries assembled there and heard the great organ pealing out as we moved along the aisle. It was a wonderful experience.

Everywhere we longed to have a little more time — there was so much to see and to linger over — but we were guests of our generous hosts and grateful for being able even to see a little of these famous places with the convenience of a good car. It was at Strasbourg, however, that I should have liked to linger for keeps. The pure slender lines and magnificent sculptures — the windows, doors, great height and delicate beauty, where seeming fragility was only the flower of great strength and rightness — all this appealed to me more than I can say.

It was late at night when we arrived at Nierstein on the Rhine,

Council-Planners Fought Over 1 Ord. So Now There Are 3

The city council, last night, sent three ordinances, instead of one, to the planning commission with instructions to hold public hearings on all three, "concurrently." Two of them are controversial, or at least the council and planning commission found them so when they failed to reach an agreement on them.

(1) The interim zoning ordinance which has been in effect for over a year and is up for renewal. It gives the planning commission power to require off street parking as it sees fit (they have required 100 percent for hotels and motels). It also gives the planning commission design control.

(2) The same interim ordinance but expanded to include unlimited control over set-backs, open spaces and provision for permanent landscaping. The commission can demand anything they

Nan Merriman To Sing Oct. 17 For Music Society

Mezzo soprano Nan Merriman opens the Carmel Music Society 1957-58 season on October 17 at 8:30 o'clock in the evening in Sunset Auditorium.

Heralded as "one of the greatest singers of our time" by the Amsterdam press during a recent ten month tour of Europe, Nan Merriman also won acclaim in Italy when she appeared in the Mozart Bicentennial at La Scala; in Scotland at the Edinburgh Festival premiere of Stravinsky's Rake's Progress; and at the exclusive Mozart Festival at Aix-en-Provence in France.

In the United States she has been soloist with the Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles Symphonies and was chosen by the late Arturo Toscanini to sing solo parts in 12 broadcasts, a record for a singer of leading roles.

PADRES TWO-TIME LIVE OAK IN LEAGUE OPENER

Carmel High's fast-improving football squads finished far in front of the visiting Live Oak Acorns from Morgan Hill in last Saturday's league opener but got the victories in entirely different styles. Coach Fred Rainer's potent junior-varsity crew packed too much dynamite for the smaller Live Oak jayvees and was in total command with a 27-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. Even though the Padre junior-varsity was manned by freshmen lightweights for most of the second, third, and fourth quarters, the final score read, 61 to 7, in favor of the Red and Gray. In the varsity tilt, it was a different story as the first half play was dominated by the hard-charging Live Oak line which practically shackled the Carmel running attack. Live Oak reeled off two electrifying touchdown runs in the second quarter and were in front, 12 to 7, with 15 seconds to go in the first half when Padre quarterback Ted Smith bootlegged around right end for the Carmel go-ahead touchdown. The big Live Oak line had thoroughly outplayed the Padre forwards during the first half and the game rated a toss-up when the teams left the field for the halftime intermission.

In the third quarter, the Padres were an explosive unit which couldn't be controlled by the visiting Acorns. Given the football on the kickoff when Live Oak chose to defend the windward goal, the Padres drove 58 yards in 8 plays to go in front, 21 to 12. Bob Goldwater, Padre fullback, plunged 4 yards for the touchdown and Ted Smith booted his third straight conversion. Stunned by the change in Carmel's attitude, the Acorns tried a forward pass from their 10-yard line after the ensuing kickoff and alert linebacker, Parker Pollock, intercepted for another Carmel tally. Smith's kick was again through the uprights and the Padres were on top, 28 to 12. Six plays later, Carmel struck for another touchdown as Andy Gray turned on the power to reach paydirt. The next time Carmel got the ball, Dennis Peavey scampered 18 yards for another Padre score. At the end of the third period, the local preps were in front, 41 to 12, having piled up 27 points in the third period. The Padres slowed down in the fourth period but managed to shove Jim Lee over for a six-pointer which left the final score, 48 to 12.

Although Carmel dominated the scoring, the top football player on the field was Live Oak's little Japanese halfback, Isao Kabashi, who woke up the Padres with touchdown runs of 80 and 52 yards. This little speedster broke through the tackle slot and was by the Padre secondary before the Carmel pursuit could get moving. In addition to his brilliant running, Kabashi, was a defensive stalwart for the Acorns, leading his team in tackles and pass interceptions.

Al Eaker, Phil Durbrow, Joe Mason, and Dennis Peavey were defensive standouts for the Padres, with Andy Gray, Bob Goldwater, and Cim Conway showing the way on offense. The blocking of guards Neil Giarratana and Mike Ragget spearheaded Carmel's potent running attack in the second half.

Ron Faia and Dave Farr each marked up a pair of touchdowns in the Padrecito's 61-7 romp over the little Acorns. Faia carried the ball twice during the ball game and picked up 135 yards for a 67.5 average. This little speedster is hard to handle and will be heard from before this season is finished. Farr carried the ball 5 times and moved it 80 yards for 16-yard average. Other point-makers for the Little Padres were Pete Willcox, Jamie Holman, Mike Draper, Paul Rice, Craig Smith, Brook Scherman, and Fred Bucher.

Next action for the Carmel grid squads comes this Saturday when the highly-touted Gonzales Spartans invade Bardarson Field. Both the Gonzales teams are unusually strong this season and should provide severe tests for the Padre jayvees and varsity.

CARMEL HOSTS GONZALES SPARTANS THIS SATURDAY

Carmel High's ambitious football squads get their first real test of the current season this Saturday afternoon when the tough Gonzales Spartans invade Bardarson Field for a pair of league clashes. The Spartan junior-varsity is undefeated in league play this season, having taken the measure of Hollister and Gilroy during the last two weeks. Coach Clair Burne's Spartan varsity is 1-1 in the CCAL B-league, winning from Hollister, 20 to 12, and losing to Gilroy, 13 to 0. Both Gonzales teams are equipped with blazing speed which makes their split-T attacks hum with precision.

Top ball-movers on the Spartan varsify are Bill Fitzpatrick, a slick quarterback who is rated the best in the B-division, and Joe Montes, speedy left halfback who is the top runner in the B-league. Ahead of these two nifties, the Spartans have a pair of tackles who scale well over 225 pounds plus fast aggressive guards and ends who like to block and tackle.

As in the last two games, Carmel will go with two platoons most of the way. The offensive platoon consists of Pat Harney and Bill Hicks, ends; Hal Gregerson and Fred Nelson, tackles; Mal Burdis, Mike Raggett, and Neil Giarratana, guards; Parker Pollock, center; Dennis Peavey and Andy Gray, halfbacks; and Bob Goldwater, fullback. The defensive platoon will be manned by Art Wilkerson and Alf Anderson, ends; Captain Phil Durbrow and Norman Colman, tackles; Al Eaker and Joe Mason, guards; John Morse and Parker Pollock, linebackers; Dare Conroy and Dennis Peavey, halfbacks; and Ted Smith, safety. The quarterback duties will be shared by Ted Smith, a hard-running senior, and Cim Conway, an accurate-passing junior.

Saturday's junior-varsity action gets underway at 12:30 with the varsity tilt slated for 2:00 o'clock.

The Naked Eye, Film Of Edward Weston's Art At Hill Theater

The Naked Eye, documentary film on photography starting a one week run at the Hill Theater tomorrow evening, contains a complete pictorial record of the life and work of Carmel Highlands photographer Edward Weston.

Directed and produced by Louis Clyde Stoumen, the movie uses authentic pictures for the Weston biography including shots of the famous photographer's four sons, Chandler, Neil, Brett and Cole as children and in early youth. The last three are local residents. Besides depicting the life of Edward Weston, the film also presents a complete retrospective record of his artistic career, during the 25 minutes of the movie devoted to his life story and photography.

The Naked Eye won a special award at the Edinburgh Documentary Film Festival and another special award at the Venice Festival as well as winning the Robert J. Flaherty prize, highest United States documentary film award, and was nominated for an Academy Award.

On the triple bill with The Naked Eye are Walt Disney's Samoa in technicolor and Barnaby Conrad's The Day Manolete Was Killed.

Carmel Studios Of Music Now Has Four Teacher Staff

The Carmel Studios of Music has begun its fall activities with a staff of four teachers. Starting three years ago with one teacher, it has gradually expanded to include studios in Carmel and Monterey, with students from Salinas, Spreckels, and all towns on the Monterey Peninsula. One of the Studio's students in piano, Judy Paplow, won the $200 award, among 96 competing pianists in Northern California, to attend the Santa Barbara Music Academy of the West.

The first of the series of student recitals this season will be on November 17. Included on the staff are Mrs. Roberta McConnell, Mrs. Eiko Yoshizato, Mr. Les Rhinehart and Mr. Gilbert Boyer who is also the director. Instruments taught are elementary, intermediate and advanced piano, violin, flute, trumpet and other orchestral instruments. A class in harmony or music theory will be started if there is sufficient demand.

Mrs. Yoshizato is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music where she studied violin with Mischa Mischakoff. She is currently first violinist with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. McConnell trained as a music major at Lindenwood College in St. Charles, Missouri. She was a regular performer on the Baldwin Piano Company's network program, The Aeolian Hour. Mr. Rhinehart was a music education major at Washington State College. He has played with many chamber music groups.

Mr. Boyer is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and of North Texas Teachers' College. He has studied with Guiomar Novaes, Egon Petri, and Paul Doguereau, and has had teaching experience in the East as well as here on the Peninsula. His concert work has also taken him to many areas.

so we did not see the beautiful Rhine Valley until later. But even though it was late, there was a royal welcome awaiting us. Louis Mayer is a great favorite among his relatives here where his family has had its roots for over a hundred years. As we entered the house there was music, and the stairway was paved with flowers. Supper was ready and there was gaiety and happiness everywhere. The German people whom I have met are whole-hearted, happy people. They laugh a great deal and seem to enjoy life with great gusto. They are generous and real, and they are doing everything to make us feel at home. But I must confess that I think often of Carmel and my quiet life there in spite of all these festivities.

The countryside in Germany is very beautiful. The Rhine Valley with its vineyards and castles could not fail to enchant the traveller. We travelled by Rhine Steamer from Mainz to Dusseldorf on our way to England, recently, where I visited relatives in London. The noble river flowing slowly and fully past its shores, gives one a sense of time and eternity, motion and stillness, movement and peace combined. There is much traffic on the Rhine. The barges go back and forth carrying their cargo. The steamers carry passengers, the little pleasure boats weave in and out, but the ancient river flows quietly on unheeding.

One day we drove to Wurzburg in Bavaria and saw the wonderful Tiepolo paintings on the ceiling of the music hall of the great palace and also the fine Riemenschneider wood carvings so beautifully placed in the new museum there.

Germany is very prosperous and most of the war damage has been or is being repaired. It is a common sight to see church steeples surrounded by a network of scaffolding. The new buildings in the cities are mostly modern and the shops are full of fine merchandise. The people are hearty and healthy looking. They tell good stories and live well. Concerts are attended with enthusiasm. At least, that is my impression here in the beautiful Rhine Valley.

Love from Dora.

P. S.

I think I should carry this story a little further and tell you of the day Louis Mayer and I were married in a beautiful religious ceremony by Dr. Albert Schweitzer. We had been married in a simple legal ceremony in Fishkill, New York, before we left, but as Louis Mayer is an old friend of Dr. Schweitzer, he was kind enough to give us his blessing in the little church in Dolgesheim on the Rhine where Mr. Mayer's mother was confirmed about a hundred years ago, As you know, Dr. Schweitzer is an ordained minister as well as a great philosopher, musician and doctor.

It was a beautiful sunny morning, the day of the wedding, and we arrived at the little church about ten o'clock. The bells were ringing and the villagers had all turned out for the occasion. The church was decorated with flowers. Dr. Schweitzer sat to the right of the altar as we entered and waited until the organ had stopped playing. Then he came and stood before the altar, facing us, and told the story of meeting Louis Mayer years ago in the church of Gunsbach where he lives. He took his text from Ephesians 5.9 and spoke of the human test of becoming children of light. Then we spoke our vows after his recitation of the marriage service, and as we left the church, the organ pealed out with a beautiful German chorale. We stood outside the door of the church while people came to congratulate us, and then Dr. Schweitzer invited us into the organ loft to hear him play. What a wonderful experience. After this, we drove to the home of our host Karl Ludwig Schmitt for a delightful wedding breakfast and the gathering of the Mayer clan which is numerous. There is much, much more to tell but I shall write more soon.

Editor's Note — "Dora" is the former Mrs. Hurd Comstock, recently Carmel Planning Commission member; she signs her poetry, Dora Hagemeyer; it was under this name that she edited the Pine Cone Poetry Column for many years, bringing it to the wide recognition it enjoys in its special field.

Thomas-Wilson Start Autumn Classes At Theater Workshop

Charles Thomas and Ramon Wilson will interview applicants for The Theater Workshop's autumn semester next Monday and Tuesday in their studios at Seven Arts Court, south of Ocean Avenue. Beginning and advanced drama students are invited to consult with Mr. Thomas and Mr. Wilson regarding the workshop classes soon to begin. They will include Acting, Pantomime and Stage Makeup, to be given by Mr. Thomas, and Voice and Diction to be taught by Ramon Wilson.

This is the second year of The Theater Workshop. Both men bring to it a record of drama experience. Charles Thomas, who has been a Carmel resident for seven years, is director of the Golden Bough Circle plays. He was graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York; acted on the Broadway legitimate stage with Max Reinhardt's company, and in radio.

Ramon Wilson, assistant director of the Circle received his training at London's Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. He has legitimate stage experience, and has acted in summer stock.

The autumn semester of the Theater Workshop is composed of an eight week term. Ramon Wilson plans also to offer a special course in remedial speech.

Council Involves Carmel In Two Peninsula Projects

The city council voted to appropriate $370 toward the costs of a $5000 feasibility study (whether it would pay the Monterey Peninsula to form a water district). The cost has been allocated among the peninsula cities on a population basis.

It also agreed to participate in the organization of an area planning commission with the other cities of the peninsula and their outlying areas. Representation is two persons per city; two for the unincorporated areas. Allen Knight was appointed one of Carmel's representatives. The city planning commission was instructed to appoint one of its members for the other. First business of the group is to adopt a master plan for the peninsula. The federal government will put up matching funds to help bear the cost. The other half must be raised locally by a method not yet outlined.

"You can withdraw if you don't like it," City Attorney John Morse comforted the council.

Participation was recommended by the city planning commission, City Clerk Larry Rose, City Building Inspector Floyd Adams, and Elwood Wilson, Carmel, chairman of the citizens advisory committee to the project.

Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann is to attend FBI retraining session for a week in Washington, D. C. and the council appropriated $450 to pay his expenses.

Monterey Peninsula Ground Observer Corps received its annual $60 from the civilian defense surplus left over from the last war. (citizens' contributions, not tax money).

Mayor John Chitwood accepted the city's annual safety award from Malcolm Tuttle of the State Automobile Association, its twelfth for no pedestrian traffic deaths. This one was already framed.

Two sign applications were approved: John Scott's for Scott's Silver and Leather; Joseph F. Frame's for House of Seven Seas.

Business license transfers: D. D. Grimes' House of the Seven Seas, moving from Golden Bough Court to Dolores between Ocean and Seventh, in the former location of Little and Tanous.

Lara's Handcrafts, from Dolores, north of Sixth to Dolores between Ocean and Seventh.

Kenneth Mathew's Jewelry Atelier, from Paterson Building, Sixth between Dolores and Lincoln, across the street.

Mary Dickinson from Junipero between Fifth and Sixth to Hill's Corners, San Carlos at Eighth.

Change of ownership: Gift Store, DeLourdes, opposite the Art Gallery on Dolores, Richard and Charity Weer to Paul A. Moore, who will change the name to Moore's

City Clerk Rose read the following letter acknowledging the October 1 resignation of Horace Lyon as city councilman and mayor. It was signed by city officials as well as by council members.

The Time Has Come .

by Kippy Stuart

The time is fast approaching when we must put our tuberous begonias to bed. If properly cared for, these tubers will be with us for many years and they deserve the necessary care it takes to bed them down for the winter. If you have happened to pause on the northwest corner of Eighth and Lincoln Streets, you have seen one of the most colorful gardens in Carmel. Ernest Leffingwell devotes his entire time to the care of his garden and all the neighborhood is blessed with the galaxy of color.

Believing that the proper way to get information is to visit the specialist, I went to see Mr. Leffingwell and asked him a few questions which I relay to the Pine Cone. The Leffingwell gardens have over 160 blooming begonias, of every variety under the sun. This year Mr. Leffingwell has propagated by cuttings over 120 plants.

I asked the gentleman to give me a resume of procedure at this time of year. His reply: "In October and November, when the leaves of particular plants start turning yellow, gradually decrease the watering schedule. Offer just enough moisture to keep the bulbs alive without ever watering. Don't break or cut off the stems of plants, allow the stems to fall off naturally. The plant itself will make a clean break, leaving no subends to mildew."

Next I asked how his bulbs were prepared for storage. "After stems have broken away from the bulb I dry them in the sun for a few days, then store them in a dry place, the garage being a good spot." I then asked whether or not he sprayed the bulbs before storing, Mr. Leffingwell replied that he did not spray. He explained to me that he left his bulbs in a dark, dry place until the middle of February, when the cycle of planting and getting ready for flowering begins all over again.

I am grateful to Mr. Leffingwell for his expert opinions on this matter for there are divers opinions and divers methods of treating the begonia family. In my own experience, I have found tuberous begonias unpredictable and sassy. You never know just what they are going to do. I have planted begonias in different gardens merely a block apart, with the same exposure, the same system of care. One garden will bite the dust and the tubers will be a miserable spectacle; in the other garden, there they are pert and handsome, holding heads up and scorning mildew.

Professional gardeners are prone to look wise and give all sorts of queer replies to the question, "What is wrong with this plant?" But not me. When I am in the dark, as I am so often over tuberous begonias, I come right out flat and acknowledge, "I dunno."

Singers Signing Up Now For Verdi Manzoni Requiem

The Monterey Peninsula Civic Chorus, directed by Gilbert Boyer and Miss Angie Machado, announces its winter project to be the famous Verdi Manzoni Requiem for four soloists, chorus and orchestra. Rehearsals are underway in Sunset School on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in Room 13 under the sponsorship of the Carmel Adult Schol. Many will recall the performance of the Brahms Requiem to a full house in Sunset Auditorium last year with an orchestra and chorus. The Verdi Requiem will be given a similar production. However, instead of a chorus of 75, Mr. Boyer and Miss Machado need a chorus of 100 because of the intense contrasting dramatic effects demanded in Verdi's composition.

Verdi composed this great mass when he was sixty after he had written most of his operas. It is consequently a masterpiece with great originality and daring. Verdi was not only a great admirer of Manzoni, the Italian writer, but said: "You know how deep is my admiration for this man who, in my opinion, has written not only the greatest book of our epoch, but also one of the greatest books ever to emerge from the human brain!"

Any Monterey Peninsula resident interested in singing or playing in the orchestra of the Verdi Requiem is invited to attend the rehearsal October 15, Room 13 (Mission Street side) Sunset School, Carmel, or telephone Mr. Boyer MA 4-3347 or Miss Machado MA 4-4166.

RABID SKUNK

The Monterey County Health Department recently destroyed four dogs bitten by a rabid skunk. The dogs had not been given anti-rabies vaccination previous to their encounter with the rabid animal.

Dr. Myron C. Husband, director of public health, states that this incident again demonstrates rabies is prevalent in county wild life. Had the dogs been vaccinated a booster shot would have retained them as pets.

OFFICIAL WELCOME

Mayor John Chitwood will give Carmel's official welcome to 400 California county planning commissioners meeting today through noon Saturday at Highlands Inn for their annual conference. Supervisor Tom Hudson will deliver the county's welcome and State Senator Fred Farr will speak on The Role of the State Legislator in planning.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves,
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

OREGON'S POET LAUREATE

Art and poetry are not usually considered as being very closely related to conservation; yet the photographs of Philip Hyde and Charles Eggert, two of America's foremost photographers, played a crucial part in winning the famous battle against the proposed Echo Park dam in Dinosaur National Monument. Poetry could also be significant in awakening an appreciation of the spiritual value of wilderness — an appreciation that could inspire conservation workers to a more devoted effort.

Speaking for myself, I can testify that my love of the western mountains and my desire to help protect them from commercializing influences has been fostered to a considerable degree by the writings of some of our western nature poets. Foremost among them is Ethel Romig Fuller, who was in August appointed by Governor Holmes as Oregon's new poet laureate. She succeeds the late Ben Hur Lampman, who for forty years, as Associate Editor of the Oregonian, made notable contributions to the nature literature of Oregon and the West.

My first acquaintance with Mrs. Fuller's poetry dates back to the years of my residence in Oregon in the 1920s. Living in the Hood River Valley almost within the shadow of Mount Hood I learned the meaning of the first sentence of Mrs. Fuller's lead poem in her book, "White Peaks and Green". The poem is entitled "Concerning the Speech of Mountains" and the first sentence, very short and significant, reads: "Mountains talk". This is repeated in the last stanza, which is worth quoting:

"Mountains talk;
Their language is a composite
Of all peoples, of all lands,
of all ages, of all planets,
of all seas.
Its fundamentals are beauty.
I am studying the language of mountains."

This is a study that for me is still continuing. I never expect to master that language. In many of Mrs. Fuller's other poems may be found hints that will help. For instance, the poem, "Origins of Beauty", in her most recently published book, "Skylines" (Binfords and Mort, 1952), one of my favorites, is a mine of suggestions.

Listen to these sentences, taken at random from this poem: "Mountain water made music before man's throat knew gutturals — It sings a paeon of creation". "From a pinnacled rostrum, a Master wielding a baton of lightning, conducts the superb orchestration of a thunderstorm". "In mountains is the epitome of rhythm". "The silence of mountains, an answer to every question".

A few summers ago my wife and I had the great pleasure of becoming acquainted with Mrs. Fuller and her husband at their delightful mountain top home in northern Washington. Here they lived for ten years, collecting native plants from all over the world for their alpine garden. It was a sad day for them when their sons insisted that the life was too rugged for them, especially in the winters.

Now they live in Portland, where Mrs. Fuller is Poetry Editor of the Oregonian. She is currently working on her fourth book of poems. It was indeed a great honor to be chosen by a committee of the Oregon State Poetry Association from among 21 candidates to be recommended to the Governor for the appointment as Poet Laureate. May she have many more fruitful years in which to enjoy this richly deserved honor!

Music On Peninsula . . .

By Mary-Lindsay Oliver

The Monterey Peninsula Concert Association opened its season last Saturday at the Pacific Grove High School with a performance by Dorothy Dean's Civic Ballet. Henry Kersh, co-director, whose art as a dancer is known far afield, was programmed but had to be absent in Santa Barbara, and his place was filled by Frank Bourman. It was all largely a repetition of the Ballet's initial performance last Spring in both design and personelle, with the addition of Renee Wurzmann, dancer from the Nix Ballet School of Carmel, recently returned from a year with Eugene Lorning in Hollywood. It is the essential earlier period with the young that makes the possibility of the artist, and Renee's heightened development was clearly in evidence in the Capriccio Espagnol and the Cakewalk.

While all the members of the ballet made an excellent ensemble, Roberta Tabata and Ackemi Ito were outstanding in their solos and received unstinted applause; also the two men — Frank Bourman and Dale Lefler — for the agility of their solo parts.

The Rossini Variations, done by Alaine Hurlbut and Sherron McGoughey, with Roberta Tabata as soloist, had plenty of variety in the choreography by Vonn Hamilton who also fashioned the Capriccio Espagnol and the Cake Walk to Rimsky-Korsakov's and Gottschalk Kay's music. The Pastorale apres Degas with Delibes' music owed its lovely grouping and movements to the choreography of Dorothy Dean and Henry Kersh in the well known Degas costuming. Betty Eckerson, Judy Shintani, Gloria Lewis, Susan Heiland and Danell Walker completed the delectable ballet company. With Dorothy Dean all were applauded with enthusiasm at the end by a full house. It proved an auspicious opening to the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association's Series.

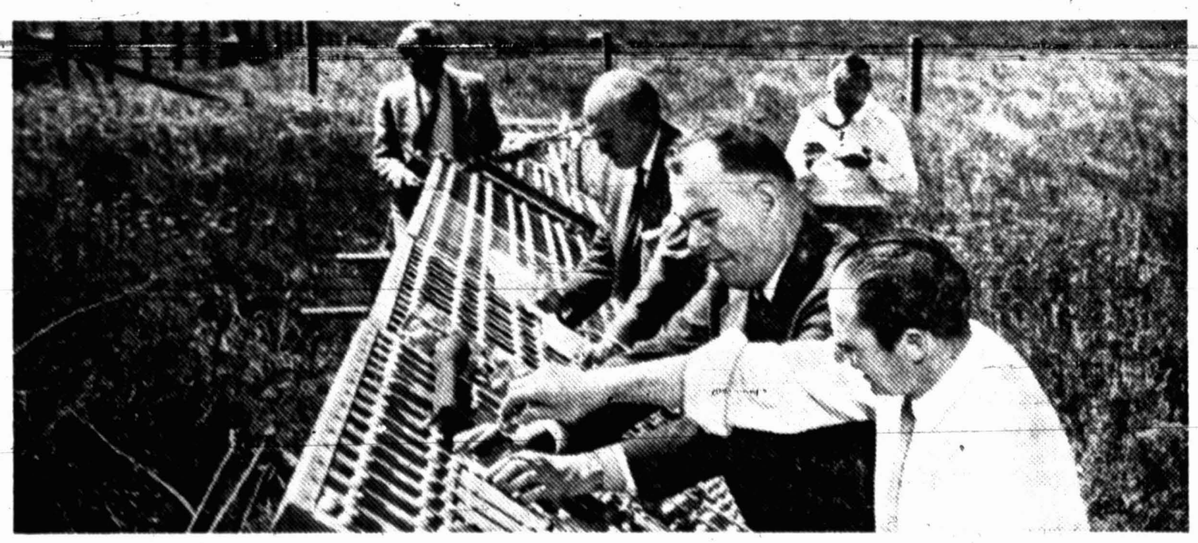
How telephone men fight metal-eating winds

Tony Gurnari and Vic Sculatti (left and right above) are part of a telephone metal-testing team. They're prying open what we call a terminal box. It's like the one to which telephone wires from your house are connected. But this one is frozen shut by a hungry metal-eater called corrosion. Corrosion can be caused by salt-laden wind, fog or ocean spray. It can rust, pit or crack tough metals. So we test to find metals that are economical to use yet resist corrosion. Telephone men also study other destroyers like wood rot, insects and even gnawing animals. By controlling such destroyers, we save thousands of dollars worth of equipment each year.



At the test site, Tony and Vic are at work learning new facts about corrosion by exposing metals to ocean winds and other elements. Their tests are part of our effort to lengthen the life of every kind of equipment serving your phone. At the same time these tests help us keep your service dependable.

Working together to serve you better ....

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

Many of you are familiar with the works of Marcus Bach, who is director of the Interfaith School of Religion at the University of Iowa. He has written a number of estimable books on religion, all of them imbued with his sincere respect for all religions. His guiding belief that all roads which lead to God are good, lifts his work above all sectarianism. Dr. Bach's latest is called Circle of Faith. In it he discusses various religions through the great men and women who have relied upon them. This is an inspiring book, in the best sense of that overworked word.

Under the rather misleading title of The Making of a Moon, Arthur Clarke has written an interesting book about the new earth satellite which is soon to be launched. Illustrated with photographs and drawings, this book should go far toward helping the layman understand what makes satellites do what they do.

Nowadays people seldom bother with dogs that are just dogs. The purebred dog is the rule, and the rule demands correct information as to breeds, markings, and such like. For this reason, this library has ordered through the county library, a set of the Denlinger books on the various breeds of dogs. Each book has a title beginning with the words The Complete ... what ever the breed is. The first book to be received on this order is The Complete Boxer. It appears to be just what it says it is, a complete handling of the boxer with many photographs of champions, and chapter after chapter of information about this popular breed of dog. Other books in the series about other breeds will follow this one very soon.

A book which sheds light upon a little known part of the world is Sultan in Oman by James Morris. In the author's capacity of correspondent for the London Times he travelled with the Sultan of Muscat and Oman when he moved against the Imam of Oman and a possible treaty with the Arab League. Oman is a long narrow country lying along the edge of the Indian Ocean, bordering Saudi Arabia, and having a population of some 550,000 people. This area is important in these times, and the book will help to clarify the country and it's people in our minds.

Among the new novels is The Moon by Night by Joy Packer. The action of the book covers four days spent in a journey through the South African wilds. There is much description of the countryside and sympathy for the wild animals which inhabit it. There is also a simple love story. All of the characters are nice people. If you like to read about nice people driving through the wilds of Africa, this is for you.

Dandelion Wine by Ray Bradbury tells of a magical summer in the life of twelve year old Douglas Spaulding. This is a book which may recall to you some magical summer of your own, spent in a wonderful place you knew when you were young.

There are other novels and two good mysteries. Come and browse a while. It may start to rain soon and you should be fortified with an armload of good books.

Oktoberfest At Ord This Weekend

Breaking of a gigantic four-foot pretzel by San Francisco German consul general Gunter Kempff, Monterey mayor Dan Searle and Fort Ord commander Major General William M. Breckinridge will open the Oktoberfest at Fort Ord Soldier's Club tomorrow evening at 6:00 o'clock.

Festivities, during which 25,000 mugs of beer are expected to be consumed, continue through Saturday and Sunday. The beer was brought by ship from Germany in 125 barrels along with 5,000 stoneware beer steins that will be given away, as long as they last, to those attending the carnival. German food will be served, Bavarian bands will play for dancing and community singing and the atmosphere of Munich's original Oktoberfest is to be captured during the three day Soldier's Club beer party with Bavarian entertainment.

Proceeds, after expenses, will be used to aid in the support of seven German orphanages. The first Oktoberfest was brought to the peninsula last year by the Fifth Infantry Division, newly arrived from being stationed in Germany, to raise funds for the charities they had undertaken during their years in Bavaria.

This year the Oktoberfest is a much bigger undertaking and will authentically reproduce the Munich festival which salutes the end of the harvest time in Bavaria.

Seniors Collect Rummage Saturday For Oct. 19 Carnival

Saturday is collection day for the High School annual scholarship carnival when seniors, directed by Mal Burdis, will circulate door-to-door throughout the community gathering unwanted objects to be auctioned in the senior class carnival concession on October 19, Carnival Day.

Collections start Saturday morning with an afternoon break at game time. After the football game seniors gather at Suzann Pilot's house to organize further collections until 6:00 o'clock when they return to Suzann's house for dinner. They resume collecting at 7:00 o'clock and hope by 8:00 o'clock to have sufficient articles to stock their auction booth.

Profits from the senior auction carnival concession are put in the school scholarship fund to assist selected senior students financially when they go to college next year.

This winter don't let bad weather tie you down a dryer will set you free!

You can do something about the weather. You can get an automatic clothes dryer and wash and dry any time you please. This all-weather convenience means your washing doesn't pile up waiting for the first clear day. No more pins, lines and numb fingers . . . that's the life with an automatic dryer.

What'll a dryer do to your P. G. and E. bill?

It's hard to say right to the penny because it depends on the dryer and how often you wash. But you can be sure any dryer will operate on just a few pennies a load because gas and electricity are cheap in California.

Laundry dries better any time... with an automatic dryer!

OCTOBER

Where now the burning tiger lilies stand
Bending above the autumn of the garden,
October colors drowse in amber shades
Of light and leaf, chrysanthemums and sun.
Pale yellow apple leaves await the wind,
Nor for a golden moment ripe and still
As though the year were theirs and they its crown,
The twelve months leading upward to this goal.

Yet not in dappled colors nor in light
Is given the subtle testament of change.
There is a permanence unseen and real,
The silence speaks—a sadness veiling joy.
The moving shadows mottled on the grass
Attest the timeless presence they conceal.

—DORA HAGEMEYER.

SHADOWS AT SUNDOWN

It's sundown; and long shadows lingering
On lonely strand beside a shining sea,
Say many feet have walked this way, and wandering,
Left shadowed imprints here for me to see.

Who were these souls whose steps have strayed
Along the sand? What restless energy
Took but small note of time, but made
This record? What heredity?

And now the lengthening beams of waning sun
Have cupped each shaded ripple; one by one
Merged with his neighbor, as the ebbing sea
Erases this brief moment of eternity.

—GRACE R. BALLARD.

STERN LIGHTS

Gone is my love
Lost, the house
Spent is the money
Bent, sprigs of body
Wasted is time
Eroded by tears
For now I emerge
To build again
A child reborn
Nakedly blessed
With wisdom.

—E. W. NORTHNAGEL.

"Where's Gael? She Knows"

Whenever passengers on the Scandinavian freighter Thorsisle wanted to know anything about the ship during a three months' trip to the South Seas they said, "Where's Gael? She Knows," reports artist Linford Donovan, who, with her eight year old daughter Gael, came back to Carmel this weekend after visiting Tahiti, the Tonga Islands, Pago Pago, Apia in Western Samoa, Noumea in New Caledonia and Lae in New Guinea.

The crew of the Thorsisle made a swing for Gael on deck and with her good friend the ship's carpenter she explored every corner of the vessel, found out how everything worked and learned the daily news, according to her mother. Then in Lae a dog joined the ship and walking the new fourfooted passenger added to Gael's delight with the voyage and she returned to Carmel full of stories to tell her River School second grade classmates.

While Gael explored Mrs. Donovan sketched. She and Gael spent every night on the ship even when it remained in port for a week or five days. " A wonderful way to travel to remote places with a small child," says Linford Donovan, "you can see everything and never worry about proper food and water."

Cynthia's Tip To Hostesses

Any Carmel hostess needing an extra man should know that brothers Laidlaw and Henry Williams and their cousin Dr. Russell Williams will be available during the next few months was the thought Cynthia (Mrs. Russell) Williams passed on to the Pine Cone last week.

She pointed out that Abbie Lou (Mrs. Laidlaw), Mona (Mrs. Henry) and herself would all be on oceans this week. Abbie Lou and Mona on the Atlantic, Europe bound and Cynthia on the Pacific, destination Hawaii.

"After all," ended Cynthia, "husbands who stay home with high school age children while their wives travel deserve to be invited to parties and think how they will enjoy a dinner they haven't cooked themselves."

Bob O'Brien At Sea

Robert Emmett O'Brien is spending two weeks aboard the freighter Diemerdyk which left San Francisco last Thursday for a trip to Vancouver and back. Mr. O'Brien plans to stay with the ship for the entire round trip voyage.

Realtor's Party For Ted Fehring

The Carmel Board of Realtors are giving a dinner party for Ted Fehring at Zampatti's Restaurant this evening.

"A farewell party," says president Leo Tanous, "we're going to miss him calling at every realty office in town every day."

Ted is not going to be calling because he is leaving Coast Counties Land Title Company to be the new manager of Pioneer Savings and Loan Company in Monterey.

"It's also a send-off party," added Leo, "he's been such a help to us we want him to know how much we wish him success in his new job."

"Still Awake?" Asked Abbie Lou

Mrs. Laidlaw Williams completely forgot time difference when she phoned her husband last Thursday from New York.

"Is Bozzie still awake?" she asked at an hour no Carmel High School sophomore would consider bedtime.

"No!" laughed Laidlaw "it's not even supper time here yet?"

So Abbie Lou said goodbye to both her son Boz and Laidlaw before sailing with her daughter Alice for the Azores and Italy with their final destination Switzerland where Alice will study French and German for a year.

Abbie Lou plans to be back in Carmel by Thanksgiving.

"Genuine Tourists" In Hawaii

Mrs. Ruth Galvin Thornburg, head librarian at Harrison Memorial Library, and Mrs. Marion Parker are sailing on the Matsonia tomorrow for three weeks in Hawaii.

"We're going to be genuine tourists," says Mrs. Thornburg, "take pictures of everything we can think of and have a good rest."

The travellers plan excursions to two other islands besides Oahu and will be back in Carmel on November 2.

From a Librarian's Notebook, Mrs. Thornburg's Pine Cone column, will not be published during her three weeks' vacation.

Kevin On New Yorker Staff

Kevin Wallace is now a member of the New Yorker magazine staff with his first work appearing this week in Talk of the Town section. Kevin, son of Mrs. Grant Wallace of Carmel and sister of Mrs. Guthrie Courvoisier (Moira Wallace) was formerly assistant city editor of the San Francisco Chronicle and before that San Francisco Examiner drama critic.

His first published story was an exclusive interview with Charles Lindbergh when the famous flyer visited San Francisco after his trans-Atlantic flight in the Spirit of St. Louis. Kevin, then a student at Sunset School, was taken by a newspaperman friend, Bob Wilson, to meet Lindbergh and Kevin's report of the meeting was published in the Pine Cone.

"He really felt important when that happened", said Mrs. Courvoisier this week, reporting her brother's new status.

Kevin took his wife Helen and their two children, two cats and a dog with him when he left for New York.

"And in a week he had an apartment on Riverside Drive where children, cats and dogs were welcome," according to his sister.

COUNTY OFFICIALS ADDRESS POINT GROUP

Frank Moller was elected president of the Carmel Point Home Owners Association at the group's meeting last week in River School. Serving on the board of directors with him for the next year are Charles McHarry, vice president; Andy Hughes, treasurer; and George Forman, secretary.

Ernest W. De Mars, director of planning for Monterey County, was principal speaker outlining the work of his department and stressing the need of long range planning on the peninsula in view of expected population growth.

Sheriff Victor Tibbs made brief remarks about his office and assured Point home owners of protection by his department.

Other public officials present at the meeting were H. D. Maybury, county building inspector; Keith Evans, member of the Monterey County Planning Commission, and Harold Green, assistant road superintendent.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible will include the following from Psalms (67:1, 2): "God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following selections will also be read (206:26-28, 30): "Instead of God sending sickness and death, He destroys them, and brings to light immortality .... God does not cause man to sin, to be sick, or to die."

The Golden Text is from Proverbs (12:28): "In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death."

Missionary Tea

Hawaii is really a laboratory of inter-racial living, the Reverend Allen D. Breed told the women at the inter-church missionary tea at the Church of the Wayfarer on October 1. Women of the American Friends Society, the Carmel Presbyterian Church and of All Saints' Church were guests of the Wayfarer Auxiliary at the meeting. Problems of race relations are being considered this year in the various women's religious organizations.

Mr. Breed lived for several years in Honolulu, serving as pastor in a mission church and teaching in the Kamehameha school for children of Hawaiian extraction. He described the life on the street where he lived, with its up-to-date business men of many nationalities and inter-racial blood, following a similar pattern of living to men of Caucasian blood and culture. There are few problems in social relations; people will say they are Japanese - Hawaiians, Chinese - Hawaiians, Korean - Hawaiians, Filipino, or English, etc., or cosmopolitan, if the mixture is of several nationalities besides Hawaiian. Social bars based on race are largely non-existent.

The speaker discussed the life in the islands as daily living and race-relations, school and race, church and race. While there are some private schools for "white" children, there is the Kamehameha (private) institution, one part for boys, one for girls of Hawaiian blood, well endowed, from kindergarten to junior college level, and several church schools. The public schools are inter-racial and well supported and well-attended, and few if any interracial problems.

At first the churches were segregated because of language differences, Mr. Breed said, but now the younger generation is thoroughly familiar with English, and the larger churches are becoming multi-racial. Mission churches, in most cases, have two ministers and two services, in English and in a second language for the older members of the other race. Young persons in the Korean Methodist Church asked that Korean be dropped from its name, even though the two services might continue. Social affairs in the churches are largely bi-racial. Members of the audience were greatly interested in the address.

Preceding the talk Mrs. Kenneth Kightly gave three solos: Behold, What Manner of Love, Come Ye Blessed, and Let All My Life Be Music, with Mrs. W. J. Farlinger as accompanist. A lively social hour followed, with bountiful refreshments of tea, coffee, sandwiches and cakes dispensed at two tables to the large gathering of women from the several churches.

New 3 Bedroom House - Near Beach
Under $20,000

THERE'S A CATCH TO THIS ONE. It takes about 3 months to get delivery. But we have a builder who puts up a very well-built house at a reasonable figure. We can deliver a 3-Bedroom, 2-Bath (or 2-bedroom, 2-bath) house, with a double garage, shake roof, birch cabinets, Hotpoint or GE range and oven, forced air heat, oak floors, ceilings, throughout, for under $14,000. ($12,000 if it's a little less fancy.) We have a few 60'x100' lots left near the beach at $6,000. So, you CAN have a new house near the beach, for under $20,000. We can help you find your financing, too. (Or if you already have a lot, we can build on it for you.) Drop in and see the plans.

less the council feels great urgency in this matter, that a decision on considering such ordinance be postponed until the results of the Palm Springs appeal be known."

He is aware that there are differences in the Palm Springs and San Benito County ordinances in manner of enforcement, Mr. Morse said, but a city's right to enact such an ordinance is the point at issue in the Palm Springs case.

Nevertheless, Admiral C. W. Fisher, member of the right to work committee, emphasized the differences in the manner of enforcement. "These ordinances are not parallel to our ordinance. We think the superior court would sustain it." He cited recent articles in the Stanford Law Review and The Rotarian. He added that there are broader implications than the legal question involved "from the sociological, moral and humanitarian point of view.

"Our government should be responsive to the governed. Over 1000 constituents have signed the petition, a strong cross-section of the feeling of the city."

He concluded with: "Our freedom of choice should be maintained. No organization should have a right to state, 'you shall not work unless you join our organization."

Lou Gold, representing Monterey Peninsula Hotel, Restaurant Employees and Bartenders Union, said that Carmel's economic life depends largely on the travel trade and that his organization had contributed more than any other to bring visitors to the Peninsula. He termed the proposed right to work ordinance "a harassment, destroying the fine relationship existing between labor organizations and the people of the community."

John F. Henning of San Jose, research director of the California Federation of Labor presented organized labor's view of the subject at length and in all its aspects: economic, philosophical, political, humanitarian. Finally, he said that the National Council of Churches, Catholic Welfare Council, leading priests and rabbis "consider the right to work concept immoral."

Patricia Hall said, "I cannot bargain as an individual. The greatest help I ever got was from the unions."

Col. A. C. DeCamp, said "I know about the objectives of labor," and told of union leader "crooked deals" in Chicago, of which he had personal cognizance.

Col. C. B. Hazeltine said that no one had touched on the main point: "Shall we allow any organization to enforce a picket line in a case in which neither employer or employees wish a union?" He was referring to the Blue Bird Restaurant picketing that aggravated local residents to initiate the petition.

George Jenkins of the Monterey Building Trades Council said that Carmel's right to work movement was not locally inspired but a national movement. He said he didn't think Carmel should be a testing ground for the fight between Knight and Knowland.

Captain H. M. Gleason said Carmel people were not inspired by a national movement but the Blue Bird incident. "We asked ourselves, 'Why do we have such things in Carmel?'"

Niels Peterson, of the Monterey Central Labor Council and Hod Carriers Union: "The greater part of the people who work here and serve you live outside the city. You are trying to legislate for people who do not live here. The artisans who built your beautiful homes have served you well."

Howard C. Murphy said that local citizens resent the efforts of outsiders, the labor organizations, to tell Carmel workers what to do.

Mayor Chitwood, looking pale (for several months he has left the Fort Ord Hospital only to attend council meetings) stopped discussion here, pointing to a three-hour agenda lying ahead.

The council members said that it was a complex question. They would give it thought and study. Three, Buffington, Chitwood and Knight stated that Carmel should await the Palm Springs appeal decision.

MPA To Develop 80 Acre Tract, Carmel Hills

Wright Fisher, president of Monterey Peninsula Associates, has announced the purchase by this group of 80 acres of land from Charles A. Fuller and William L. Hudson for a subdivision to be called Carmel Knolls.

The land is a plateau, parallel to Carmel Hills subdivisions, between Hatton Canyon and Rancho Rio Vista. Bounded on the south by Carmel Valley Road it has been known as Hatton Dairy.

Mr. Fisher announces that the development of this land will extend over a period of five years and will link Carmel Hills and Rancho Rio Vista areas.

"This is definitely not a tract development," says Mr. Fisher. "We plan to emphasize the sale of homesites to owners for tailor-made homes, and there will be strict architectural control.

The quarter-million dollar transaction was negotiated by the real estate firm of Fisher, Dorsey and Langshaw.

consider "adequate in view of the proposed use."

(3) A proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance requiring that 2 percent of the site, in addition to off street parking, walkways and driveways be set aside for landscaping, two thirds of which must be in front of the structure and no part of which may be less than two feet wide.

The council suggested passage of the first and third; the planning commission countered with the second, which gives them scope to enforce their 4-6 formula (limiting construction to 600 square feet per 1000 square feet of site) a proposition they wanted to put on as a rider to the interim zoning ordinance. The council thought it would be too controversial, and besides, they weren't sure they liked it themselves without some study.

Council Installs Knight Eyes New Vacant Chair

could be filled, and appointed new Councilman Knight police commissioner, Mr. Chitwood's job before he became interim mayor and commissioner of health and safety, Mr. Whitaker's assignment, until he resigned. These arrangements are subject to change as soon as the council decides on a replacement for Mr. Whitaker, which they will try to do in executive session at 6:00 o'clock next Wednesday evening.

At the next official council meeting, they will pass a resolution regretting Francis Whitaker's resignation. Last night they regretted Horace Lyon's.

"The Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea accepts with regret your resignation as Councilman and further wishes to express its appreciation to you for the five and one-half years of service in the Mayorship of this City.

"Under your leadership, many civic accomplishments were completed for the City of Carmel. The Council wishes you many happy and prosperous years in which to enjoy the pleasant surroundings of Carmel that your good work so ably helped to maintain and enhance."

New councilman Knight was Mayor from 1950-52 during which time he strongly advocated the city sales tax. Before this he served as councilman under Mayor Fred Godwin for two terms and with Mayor P. A. McCreery for one. He first came to Carmel as an infant with his aunts, the Misses Agnes and Alice Miller, who had a home on Monte Verde Street where the Sundial Court Apartments now stand. Mr. Knight received his schooling in San Francisco, served five and a half years in the Merchant Marine, then returned to Carmel to live.

For 15 years he was employed by the P.G. and E. and also, in 1927 and 1928, held the position of membership secretary of the Monterey Chamber of Commerce. He is now associated with Peninsula Properties real estate firm with offices in Monterey.

Twenty-five years ago Allen Knight married Adele Hawes of Monterey. They have three children, a son Allen Jr. now working in San Francisco, and two daughters Mrs. Kenneth Blaisner (Alice) of Walla Walla, Washington, and Allene, employed by McCann and Erickson, a San Francisco advertising firm.

His home, known as the "ship house", because of the nautical design of one part, is at Guadalupe and Sixth Streets. Here he pursues his hobby of interest in all things pertaining to the sea. He formerly took an active part in local theatricals, was a talented actor and entertainer, and at one time a dance band leader.

Lucy Belle Jacco

Mrs. Lucy Belle Jacco, who resided in Carmel for many years before moving to Monterey, died Sunday afternoon in a Salinas hospital after a long period of failing health.

Mrs. Jacco was born in Dennison, Iowa, on November 23, 1883. Her husband Ned Jacco died 25 years ago.

She was active in the interior decorating business until 1956 working closely with local artists and architects.

Survivors are a niece, Mrs. Grace Oberg of San Francisco; and a grand-nephew, John Oberg of Monterey.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea with Chaplain John F. Wright officiating.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.
